TENER SPENDING DAY QUIETLY AMONG HIS FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS AT HOME

INDICATIONS POINT TO BIG VOTE IN CHARLEROI FOR JOHN K. TENER

Candidate for Governor in Best of Spirits and Full of Confidence for His Election.

John K. Tener Home Candidate For Governor

CASTS HIS VOTE EARLY

Threat of Keystoneers to Challenge Him Was Not Carried Into Effect When the Time Came

In the best of spirits and full of confidence Hon. John K. Tener is spending election day quietly in his own home town. He voted this morning at the second precinct promptly at 10:28, and the threat which had been made by some of the Keystoneers in Charleroi to challenge his vote was not carried out. His ballot was No. 79.

Mr. Tener was prepared to meet any opposition to his vote, which some of the radical ones might try to produce. When seen shortly after he had cast his vote Mr. Tener said: "Some rabid Keystoneers in Charleroi had threatened to challenge my vote and make me produce my tax receipts and naturalization papers, but when it came to the test they refrained from so doing. I had both in my pocket."

Tonight Mr. Tener will receive returns here and spend the evening quietly with his friends. He was never in better spirits during the campaign and seems to have forgotten the dirty, slanderous attempts made to injure him personally, and in his generosity of heart to have overlooked for the time being the despicable work of his traducers.

DOUGLAS ALUMNI TO HOLD BANQUET

The second annual banquet of the Douglas College Alumni association will be held Thursday evening of this week at the Monier Hotel, and a number are expected to attend from Charleroi and vicinity. The alumni association has a large membership, many of the graduates living in other States.

Big Meeting Held at Monongahela Last Night.

CHARLEROI REPRESENTED

For the first time since he left on his campaign itinerary in September Congressman J. K. Tener was greeted by many of his Charleroi friends at the closing rally at Monongahela last night. Between 400 and 500 Charleroi people were in attendance at the meeting, which was an enthusiastic gathering of several thousand at an open air meeting.

John H. Jones, president of the Pittsburgh Buffalo Coal company, presided over the meeting, which was held at the corner of Second and Main streets. Mr. Jones introduced the speakers, which included besides Mr. Tener, William A. Blakeley of Pittsburgh, district attorney of Allegheny county and Congressman A. J. Barchfield of Pittsburgh.

District Attorney Blakely in his remarks spoke of the good times he said have been experienced during the Republican administration and dwelt some time on the statements that have been made against Tener.

Congressman Barchfield said that Tener would receive a majority of 25,000 votes in Allegheny county. He said that Tener would carry his own county, Washington, by a major-

KEYSTONERS INSULT CHARLEROI PEOPLE BY CLAIMING FRAUD

Ask to Have Overseers Appointed From Their Own Number but Court Catches Them in Ill Concealed Attempt.

In addition to reflecting upon the fair name and integrity of the electorate of Charleroi the Keystone party workers in the county tried to "pull one over" on us, to use a slang expression. Not only did these people invoke a provision of the election law that reflects discredit upon the communities to which it applies, but they also tried to evade the law and turn a possible advantage to their own account.

This was the appointment of special overseers to guard against fraud in all the precincts of Charleroi. The election law provides that the courts may, upon petition of five citizens, lawful voters of each district, appoint two overseers upon affidavit that such appointments are necessary to guard against fraud and secure the purity and fairness of elections. The law provides that these overseers shall be of members of different political parties.

The mere application for these appointments was an insult to the town, as there are never any deliberate frauds or suspicion of frauds in the elections here. In making the applications to the court for the appointments, a bunch of Keystone attorneys, who were handling the papers, presented names for two overseers in each of the three Charleroi precincts. When asked by the court if these represented opposite political parties in each precinct, the reply was that such a one had always been a Republican, and such a one had always been a Democrat. "But what are they now?" insisted the court, and the attorneys were obliged to admit they did not know whether the applicants still retained their former political allegiance.

D. M. McCloskey, Esq., who was aware of the proceedings, appeared in the interests of Charleroi, and opposed the appointment of the overseers. He denied that there had been any frauds in Charleroi except in the minds of some hysterical newspapers, and held that unless fraud was alleged the court could use its discretion in the matter of appointment of overseers. However, as the court records showed that such appointments had been previously made, they were allowed, but the court insisted that they must be strictly within legal requirements, and refused to accept all the appointments recommended by the Keystoneers.

This allowed them but one overseer in each precinct, and the others were secured by obtaining names furnished from county Republican headquarters. The Keystoneers had hoped to illegally "hog" both overseers in each precinct, and use their influence to whatever advantage might run up.

The Charleroi appointments made by the court were: First precinct, Dr. F. L. Crow, Republican; William Evans. Second precinct, John H. Bowers, Republican, Joseph Black. Third precinct, John Herron, Republican, C. J. Bucy. Overseers were also appointed for California, which has been claimed all along as a Keystone stronghold, but this action demonstrates that they are not altogether sure of that district.

Little Berry Sentiment Manifest and Charleroi Man Hopes for Large Plurality.

SOME VOTES CHALLENGED

Keystoneers Contesting Bitterly Every Inch of Ground—Mines Along Valley Closed Down.

Indications point to a big vote polled in Charleroi today for John K. Tener of Charleroi, Republican candidate for Governor, and the whole Republican ticket. Everything has been quiet thus far, and while there has been some challenging of votes, this has been largely caused by a mix-up in the registration books. Berry sentiment is hard to find and there are few workers out on the streets supporting the Keystone cause.

At noon today at the first precinct there had been 249 votes cast and at the second precinct shortly after noon there had been 170 votes cast. In the third precinct it is stated there had been nearly as many. A vote this size early in the day is taken as an indication of the polling of a large vote.

Most of the challenging was at the second precinct, where through some mixup in the registration books, it is said, many names did not appear. Keystone watchers there bitterly contested every bit of ground, and many well known men who thought their names were registered have had to swear in their votes. Everywhere is conspicuous small tags bearing the inscription "Why Not be Loyal to Charleroi Today?"

The factories are all working, but the mines in the vicinity are closed down for the day.

PUTS MOTION AND ADJOURNS COUNCIL

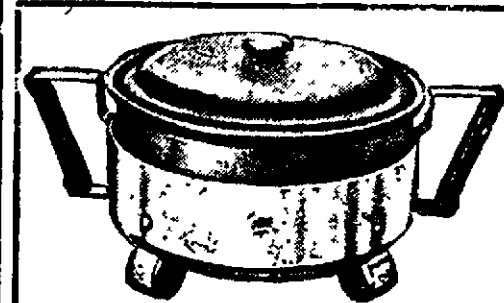

Dr. Davis the Whole "Thing" at Regular Scheduled Session.

The one councilman who appeared was Dr. A. O. Davis. After waiting a while with Clerk Nickeson, he assumed the chair, put the motion to adjourn until Wednesday evening, and by unanimous consent the motion was carried.

Something For Nothing

Republicans who desert their party today to support W. H. Berry and his Keystone ticket, are giving something for nothing and they will bitterly regret their action later on. In this time of social unrest and political hysteria it is well to consider where the road will lead to in case a change is made. Who are the men that are instrumental in engineering this movement of revolt in the State at a time when the party was never freer from attack and scandal, now when the voters have more power to exercise their suffrage in the selection of candidates from the highest to the lowest?

After all, the mass of campaign oratory, harangue and appeal, coupled with the vilest personal vituperation and attacks the State has ever witnessed, what has the opposition shown in the way of a public issue, that should prompt a Republican voter to desire a change? Nothing, absolutely nothing, has been shown or presented. Failing in this the opposition has indulged in a series of malicious and slanderous personal attacks upon the Republican candidate for Governor, that has extended to the personal impeachment of the character of his home town and community. The people who made these attacks are back of the Keystone movement, and in the event of the election of that ticket, from their number would be chosen the advisers and official board of their candidate. Is there any reason to believe that men who will stoop to the despicable campaign methods they practiced will be the safest and best that can be selected to administer State affairs?

So much for local and State affairs. Coupled with the attempt to divert and inflame the popular discontent with matters nearer at home is a deep and well laid plot to capture the national administration for the opposition. This is sewing the wind which must inevitably result in reaping the whirlwind. In view of much popular discontent due to hanging economic conditions, there is all the more need of careful, conservative action. History always repeats itself, and radical changes of national fiscal policy at this particular time can only bring financial disaster and industrial depression, together with misery, suffering and starvation. This is a danger that menaces the country today, and is the only reward that can possibly come if enough Republicans desert the grand old party to elect Mr. Berry and his Keystone endorsements for Congress and other legislative offices.

Rubbing It In

Through the Acheson influence another insult was heaped upon Charleroi as a result of the scurrilous campaign of infamy waged by the Keystone party against Congressman John K. Tener, Republican candidate for Governor, and the citizens of his home town who dared to support and uphold his honor and integrity. This was by the appointment of supervisors at all the polling places in Charleroi, a contingency provided by the election laws, where fraud is suspected or alleged. This is done on petition to the court and by the representations of interested parties. By petitioning for these supervisors for Charleroi, the Keystone workers hoped to put Charleroi in an unfavorable light before the public.

This action bears the earmarks of the Acheson interests, who have boldly charged that 346 illegal votes were cast at the primary election in April 1908. There was no occasion for this action which is a reflection on Charleroi, and was designed expressly to discredit the town solely because it is the home of John K. Tener, the Republican candidate for Governor. To charge the community that leads in the county and State in organized church and Sunday school work as the centre of political corruption, is an insult to the whole people.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

In Westmoreland during October there were two murders. Goodness, they're getting wicked over there.

"Blakenburg calls for Berry's election as the State's one hope."—North American's headline. Heaven knows it's a lonesome enough hope.

A Washington minister tells girls how to get husbands. As if they didn't know better how to get them than the men do how to keep from being "got."

What in the world will people do for a topic of conversation after election day.

The New Castle Herald is opposing Tener for the reason that he advocates good roads. Consistency thou art a lost art.

People who make a profession of believing the radical newspapers never believe the things said by them that are not exactly in accord with their own views.

The Pittsburg Leader said Tener wasn't fit for the office of Governor and was backed by a horrible Penrose machine, and some few narrow minded people believed it. The next day the Leader came out and said Penrose was running the Prohibition party and operating a church synod, and the very same people said they didn't believe it. Consistency, thou art a muck raker.

The North American refers to the Mail as "The Public Ledger of Western Pennsylvania." How very complimentary. This is infinitely better than to be known as "The North American of Western Pennsylvania," and we sincerely thank the North American for its excellent taste in this one respect.

Funeral Services

The pall bearers for the funeral of Miss Edna Blanche Phillips which was held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Pleasant View church, in Fayette county, were: Blanche Roberts, Edith Alton, Ada Gween, Lona Crable, Louis Roberts, Louise Chalfant, Rev. G. G. Kerr conducted the services. Interment was at Pleasant View cemetery. A large number of friends attended the funeral.

ity of 2,000 votes, while Berry would lose his own county, Delaware, by 2,000 votes. He said that for eight years Monongahela had been seeking an appropriation for a city building. During Tener's first term in Congress he said, an appropriation of $80,000 was granted through his influence.

It was manifestly a Tener crowd, and when the Charleroi candidate was introduced he was greeted with wild and enthusiastic cheers. Shouts of "We know you, John" and "We're with you" and "We'll pay 'em back at election" were interspersed during the address. Mr. Tener was in good voice and spirits, and although he appeared a trifle thinner than usual, was apparently none the worse for his arduous campaign. He said in part:

"It gives me great pleasure to be back again in the Monongahela valley after a campaign which has been a hard and exacting one. I am glad to be with you again and to again become a part of the people for whom I have formed so great an affection during the years I have been with you.

"The speakers who have preceded me have carefully outlined the national issues and I know it will interest you more to hear of the State issues for which you will be called upon to cast your ballot tomorrow. I cannot proceed without first calling your attention to the conditions which existed in the period from 1892 to '97 which were brought about by the greatest mistake the American people ever made, when they chose to accept Democratic control. You men who are here can remember what were the conditions when the Democratic party controlled the country. You men who are voting tomorrow know what it would mean if the conditions were to be repeated. You should guard against a repetition of such folly.

"We are all vitally interested in State matters. Under the Republican conditions the country has prospered until it has reached a condition which never before has been equalled. Pennsylvania has placed upon the statute books laws that are of the utmost importance to the welfare and prosperity of each individual and community."

Mr. Tener then briefly outlined the State's generous policy of education, good roads construction, which he declared should be amplified and extended, and the safeguarding of the public health. In reply to certain charges regarding alleged treatment of people of different races and conditions, Mr. Tener said he his position was to treat all fairly and equally. His creed, said was that a man is a man just as long as he proves himself a man. Concerning certain newspaper attacks upon him he said:

"There have been attacks made upon me and upon my character and business relations during the past few weeks which I regret. I refer to them briefly and seldom. I prefer to leave my record in the hands of the people who know me and know me for what I am. I don't think it necessary, in addressing you this evening, to make any exaggerated statement of my position. I know many of you who are standing before me this evening. Many of you know me intimately. I have lived among you for the last 20 years and I can say with honesty and conviction that there is no man in this county, or in any other county, who can truthfully say that I have ever robbed or swindled him out of a single dollar. Not one has said so and not one man will ever say it."

Mr. Tener also urged the selection of all his colleagues on the ticket, Congressional, Senatorial and Legislative.

A. H. Anderson, Esq., Republican candidate for State Senate, made a short address in which he was enthusiastically greeted by the crowd. After the addresses hundreds crowded around the speakers' stand to shake hands with Mr. Tener, after which he departed for his home in Charleroi by automobile.

FIRE DESTROYS MARIANNA HALL

The big amusement hall, "the pride of Marianna," known to miners all over the United States as being the finest equipped place of amusement for miners, was totally destroyed by fire shortly after 7 o'clock Sunday morning.

The losses amount to $75,000; the building being valued at $50,000 and the contents at $25,000.

The amusement building contained a skating rink, a theatre, operated by J. Harrison, the Young Men's Christian Association rooms, bowling alley, a pool room, a barber shop conducted by Albert Grim and also the drug store of J. D. Hazel and the office of Dr. F. F. Cobb, the physician for the Pittsburg-Buffalo company at Marianna.

The structure was of three stories, 106 feet 8 inches long by 62 feet 8 inches wide. The building was of brick and steel with heavy wooden floors and prepared roofing. The interior wall surfaces were painted instead of being plastered. The building was a beautiful one and contained every arrangement for the comfort of the miners that could be prepared. The loss was not covered by insurance.

PLAN TO ANNOUNCE RETURNS LOCALLY

Republican Headquarters in Business Men's Association Rooms.

Charleroi people will have ample opportunity to get election returns. The returns will be flashed outside by the Palace theatre as well as from the stage and the other theatres in town will announce the returns as they come in. At the Business Men's association a special telegraph instrument has been installed and this will be Republican headquarters. At the Elks' Club returns will be received by special wire. The telephone centrals will also give returns to patrons.

Shower For Bride-to-be

Mrs. Thomas McHugh of McKean avenue was hostess last evening at a linen shower given by Branch No. 782 L. C. B. A. complimentary to Miss Eleanor Shields, one of its members, whose marriage to Arthur J. Moyer will be an event of this week. Many beautiful and useful pieces of linen were received. The evening was delightfully spent at cards and other diversions. A sumptuous lunch was served.

Japanese Children.

The Japanese child is exceedingly shy and retiring before its elders, and girls are taught to practice this more than boys. In the morning as soon as they are up the children go to their parents in turn, bow their heads to the ground and say "Good morning" or "How is your honorable health?" Before a meal they lift the chopsticks to their foreheads and bow in thanks, whether their parents are present or not, for the meal set before them. Before going out to school or elsewhere and on returning they must kneel before the mother and bow. When father or mother go out the children must go to the porch, kneel down and say "Doga to go forth" or "Honorable return," as the case may be. As soon as infants can bow their heads the nurses train them in these respectful salutations.—Exchange.

The Effects.

"I have come to you, my friend, for comfort. My best girl has treated me very badly. I was trying to explain something to her, but she gave me such sharp looks they cut me to the heart; she withered me with her scorn, crushed me with her coldness and stabbed me with her keen edged tongue."

"See here, man, you oughtn't to come to me for comfort. What you need is to go to a hospital for treatment."—Baltimore American.

Did They "Hock" Them.

"In the olden days they had no watches, you know," said the father. "And how did they tell the time?" asked the son.

"By sundials."

"Well, father," said the young man, feeling of his watchless chain, "how much could a fellow get on a sundial do you suppose?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Consistent Mrs. Biggle.

Della—Mrs. Biggle is passionately fond of cream, isn't she? Stella—Oh, my, yes! She's such a crank on cream she's going to have her husband cremated.—Boston Herald.

When the Hen Crows.
Willisford in his "Nature Secrets" (1638) writes:

"Beasts eating greedily and more than they used to do prenotes foul weather, and all small cattle that seem to rejoice with playing and sporting themselves foreshews rain. Osen and all kinds of neat, if you do at any time observe them to hold up their heads and snuffle in the air or lick their hooves or their bodies against the hair, expect then rainy weather. Asses or mules rubbing often their ears or braying much more than usually they are accustomed presages rain. Hogs crying and running up and down with hay or litter in their mouths foreshews a storm to be near at hand. The little sable beast (called a flea) if much thirsting after blood it argues rain. The cock if he crows in the daytime very much or at sunset or when he is at roost at unusual hours, as at 9 or 10, expect some change of weather and that suddenly, but from fair to foul or the contrary. But when the hen crows good men expect a storm within doors and without."

Lured Into Bathing.

In a railway carriage chat the other day a London medical man told a good story which had come within his own experience. A mother was frequently bringing her child to him for treatment, but the doctor could discover nothing amiss except its need of a good wash. She was certain the infant was suffering from some terrible complaint and begged the doctor to do his best. He prescribed a daily wash with the water in which potatoes had been peeled. Never suspecting that this was merely a ruse to get the child washed, the mother followed the instructions to the letter. Rosy cheeks appeared, and a clean, healthy looking child gladdened the mother's heart. She sounded the doctor's praises everywhere and advised other mothers to test the efficacy of potato water. It never occurred to her that precisely the same result would have followed the daily application of soap and water.

A Spanish Ship Treasure.

In 1762 the largest bulk of treasure ever taken from a ship at sea was brought into London. It was the whole of the cargo of the Spanish ship Hermione, captured on May 21 by H. M. S. Active. The Hermione surrendered to the Active without an action, and the treasure was landed at Portsmouth and conveyed to London in twenty decorated wagons, with British colors over Spanish and an escort party of sailors. The strange procession reached London on Aug. 12, the day on which George IV. was born. On being sold the treasure realized £519,705 1s. 6d., and the share of the officers and men of the Active was as follows: The captain, £65,033 13s. 9d.; three commissioned officers, each £13,004 14s. 1d.; eight warrant officers, each £4,336 3s. 2d.; twenty petty officers, each £1,806 1s. 8d.; 158 seamen, each £485 5s. 4d.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Jury Penalties.

Nowadays no penalty is enforced when the twelve men chosen to form the jury are unable to agree upon a verdict. Formerly, however, a refractory jurymen was committed to prison and the verdict of the eleven was taken. In the reign of King Edward III. the judges decided that a verdict given by a majority was a nullity and recommended that the judges should carry the jury about with them in a cart till they should agree. The old custom that jurors should fast until they had agreed in their verdict prevailed long, but was mercifully relaxed somewhat in Tudor times, and during Queen Elizabeth's reign a banquet was usually given to the jury by the successful party to a suit.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Science and Cheese.

A medical authority kindly assures us that as long as cheese isn't decayed it will not affect the health of the consumer. This is a fact that we have suspected for a considerable time. But how is the ordinary cheese epicure to detect the difference unless he waits for results?

There is cheese so thoroughly disguised in the costume and aroma of decay that its proper standing on the sanitary testing table would puzzle a conjurer.

For instance, there is the brand known as Limburger.

But why pursue the subject?—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Circumventing Papa.

"Reginald, I'm awfully sorry, but papa says he doesn't want to see you coming here any more."

After Grippe or any Sickness Vinol Creates Strength HERE IS PROOF

"After a long attack of Grippe, Mrs. Vaught seemed unable to recover her strength. She was very weak and had no appetite. VINOL rapidly improved her condition and restored her to health. I sincerely recommend its use during convalescence or any run down condition."

JUDGE C. N. VAUGHT, Huntsville, Ala.

Miss Adelaide Gamm, of Watertown, Wis., writes, "After a severe attack of the Grippe, my system was in a very weakened, nervous, run-down condition. I took VINOL with the best of results, and it made me feel better and stronger than I have been for years."

We have never sold in our store a more valuable health restorer for weak and run down persons than VINOL, and we ask such people in this vicinity to try VINOL with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim for it.

KEEPING THE BALANCE.

A Story With a Moral That is Told Among the Tartars.

There is a story told among the Tartars which has a moral for the civilized men of the present day. It is to this effect: Robo, cousin of the great Mogul, was condemned to death for rebellion in a rebellion. The most skillful swordsman in the empire was provided for the execution, and the great mogul and his court were present as spectators.

The thin, keen blade flashed in the sunlight and descended upon the back of Robo, who stood upright to receive the stroke.

The executioner's work was so deftly done that, though the head was severed, not a vital organ was disturbed and he remained standing.

"What, Robo, art thou not beheaded?" exclaimed the great mogul.

"My lord, I am," replied Robo, "but as long as I keep my balance right my head will not fall off."

The great mogul was placated. A band was put on Robo's neck, and he recovered. He afterward became a loyal subject and was made cashier of the empire because, as the great mogul remarked:

"He knows that if he keeps his balance right his head will not come off."

NATION'S EYES ON PENNSYLVANIA

Gibraltar of Republicanism Will Be Loyal Next Tuesday.

VITAL ISSUES AT STAKE

Disaster That Followed Former Democratic Victories In This State Recalled.

Pennsylvania occupies a unique position in the national political situation.

Next Tuesday's election is of more than passing interest. Should by any chance either Grim or Berry be elected governor, it would be hailed as a triumph for the Democracy, as they are both Democrats: Grim of the Guffey school of conservatives, and Berry, a rampant Bryanite.

The Democrats are looking ahead. They are after the national house of congress, and they also expect to make gains in the United States senate.

While they would not ordinarily expect to make inroads into the Republican congressional delegation from this state, with the protective tariff a vital issue in the contest, the Democrats see an opportunity to defeat some Republican congressional candidates through the fact that the Keystone leaders, with Berry at the head of their ticket, have placed the names of a number of Democratic nominees for congress in their column.

Every misguided Republican who votes for Berry on the Keystone ticket may be unwittingly contributing toward the defeat of a Republican candidate for congress.

Senatorship Involved.

It must also be remembered that the Keystone ticket contains the names of a number of Democrats for the legislature, and that the general assembly will meet in Harrisburg next January when will be called upon to elect United States Senators.

Of possible disaster to the Democratic gubernatorial ticket, Berry's party generally is not likely to stand true. Berry's party generally is not likely to stand true. Berry's party generally is not likely to stand true.

These facts should not be overlooked.

In 1882 Robert Pattison, Democrat, was elected governor of Pennsylvania.

In 1884 Grover Cleveland was elected president of the United States.

In 1890 Pattison was again chosen governor.

In 1892 Cleveland returned to the White House.

Then followed the Wilson tariff bill, which closed the mills of Pennsylvania and sent thousands upon thousands of wage workers to the streets begging for daily bread.

There is little difference between Grim and Berry.

Both are hide-bound Democrats; either would use the power of the governor's office to promote the cause of Democracy, no matter if they do belong to different factions of the party.

Grim's ridiculous assaults upon Governor Stuart's administration and Berry's erratic course in politics and finance stamp them both as undesirable for the office of governor.

Democrats on Lookout.

"The Democratic congressional committee is counting upon a Democratic sweep by the aid of Grim or Berry sufficient to overturn the Republican party, to gain a dozen members of congress, to capture the legislature and send a Democrat to the United States senate," says the editor of the Philadelphia Inquirer.

"And let it be confessed right here, that if they could succeed in so doing Pennsylvania might beg in vain for any quarter. Her immense manufacturing and industrial industries would be sacrificed on the altar of Democratic theories and her mills and business houses would meet the same fate that they did when, under the last Democratic administration, the Wilson tariff brought destitution and bankruptcy.

"This is the condition which all Republicans must face.

"But we do not believe that Pennsylvania Republicans can be coaxed under any pretense whatever into the Grim or Berry Democratic organizations in sufficient numbers to affect the general result. It is true that in these closing days a vicious onslaught has been made upon the Republican ticket, and especially upon Tener. But Pennsylvania has become accustomed to vicious onslaughts. Four years ago the most despicable kind of a campaign was made against Edwin S. Stuart, but a very great many of his opponents have lived to bless the day when, in spite of their votes against him, he was elected. The Republican administration has been above reproach.

"We have no doubt whatever of the perfect safety of Pennsylvania institutions under the administration of Governor Tener, and we believe that Pennsylvania Republicans by a large majority will think with us."

Republicans of Pennsylvania should poll and vote the full Republican ticket to insure a magnificent triumph on Tuesday next.

Fresh Air in Winter

In winter, it is hard to get fresh air in certain rooms. Some rooms in a house are usually colder than others, and if you open the windows it is hard again to heat the room properly.

If you keep the windows closed you don't get fresh air; if you keep them open you cannot quickly reheat the room. The solves the difficulty. You can leave the windows in a room open all day in winter, and when you close them apply a match to a Perfection Oil Heater and heat the room to any temperature you desire in a few minutes.

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Absolutely smokeless and odorless

The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in Japan or nickel. It burns for nine hours. It has a cool handle and a damper top. It has an automatic locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so that the wick can be quickly cleaned. An indicator always shows amount of oil in the font.

The filler-cap does not need to be screwed down. It is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device in construction, and consequently, it can always be easily unscrewed in an instant for reworking. The Perfection Oil Heater is strong, durable, well made, built for service, yet light and ornamental.

MANY WITNESS THE FIRST NIGHT SHOW

At the Coyle Theatre last night a large and enthusiastic audience was present to welcome the first night of the Mysterious Madam Clifford who is here for a stay of a week. Her work is marvelous and as well startling, for she is the cleanest cut performer in this line that has ever been here. When she is classed as Anna Eva Fay's only rival, that is not saying enough, as she does more than Anna. Madam Clifford allows a committee to be chosen from the audience of any one that may desire to come upon the stage and act as such. This has never been done before and she answers the questions put to her at the rate of about one a minute. When the demonstration given last night of the psychic mind reading a mental telepathy it will cause you to talk as about all one can hear is "were you at the theatre last night to see madam Clifford?"

The supporting company is excellent. Bingham and Gable will attract and delight all lovers of music and are not confined to any one instrument. Lew Grace is a funny comedian and has some good songs and does some clever and artistic dancing. Revel and Derry, the novelty gymnasts, do some very difficult feats in strength and so some ticks that are new in their line. Mitchell and Browning are certainly funny in their comedy sketch entitled "His Last Skech."

Tonight, election night, arrangements have been made to receive the returns by wire and will be announced from the stage as quickly as received.

The Tale of a Key.

There is a roll top desk in an office near Wall street which can be bought cheap. The owner is a commuter and has desk room in a large office. He came late the other day and discovered that he had forgotten his keys. No key at hand would unlock the desk. The maker could not give aid for an hour or more, and some papers had to be reached before noon. The desk was forcibly opened, and two inner compartments were smashed. Warm and tired from the exertion of wrecking his property, the man took off his coat and slipped into an office coat, in the pocket of which his keys jingled. Tableau! Before going home he confided to the office boy that he wouldn't care if he hadn't told.--New York Tribune.

The Pillory.

The pillory in England was abolished as a punishment, except for perjury. In 1815 and was totally abolished in 1837. The last person to suffer at the Old Bailey was one Peter Bossy, for perjury, June 22, 1830. Notwithstanding the fact that this mode of punishment was supposed to be only for the lighter offenses, it often happened that the pillory meant death to those placed in it, the culprit frequently being stoned to death by the heartless mob.--New York American

TENER SPENDING DAY QUIETLY AMONG HIS FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS AT HOME

INDICATIONS POINT TO BIG VOTE IN CHARLEROI FOR JOHN K. TENER

Candidate for Governor in Best of Spirits and Full of Confidence for His Election.

CASTS HIS VOTE EARLY

Threat of Keystoneers to Challenge Him Was Not Carried Into Effect When the Time Came

In the best of spirits and full of confidence Hon. John K. Tener is spending election day quietly in his own home town. He voted this morning at the second precinct promptly at 10:23, and the threat which had been made by some of the Keystoneers in Charleroi to challenge his vote was not carried out. His ballot was No. 79.

Mr. Tener was prepared to meet any opposition to his vote, which some of the radical ones might try to produce. When seen shortly after he had cast his vote Mr. Tener said: "Some rabid Keystoneers in Charleroi had threatened to challenge my vote and make me produce my tax receipts and naturalization papers, but when it came to the test they refrained from so doing. I had both in my pocket."

Tonight Mr. Tener will receive returns here and spend the evening quietly with his friends. He was never in better spirits during the campaign and seems to have forgotten the dirty, slanderous attempts made to injure him personally, and in his generosity of heart to have overlooked for the time being the despicable work of his traducers.

DOUGLAS ALUMNI TO HOLD BANQUET

The second annual banquet of the Douglas College Alumni association will be held Thursday evening of this week at the Monier Hotel, and a number are expected to attend from Charleroi and vicinity. The alumni association has a large membership, many of the graduates living in other States.

On Friday and Saturday November 11 and 12, the Ladies League of the Methodist church will hold their annual bazaar in the basement of the church at corner of Sixth street and Lincoln avenue. As is their usual custom there will be booths for all divisions of the work and also lunch will be served.

John K. Tener Home Candidate For Governor

Charleroi Man, Who Heads Republican State Ticket, and Whose Friends Believe will be Triumphant Elected Today.

CAMPAIGN IS CLOSED NEAR HOME

Big Meeting Held at Monongahela Last Night.

CHARLEROI REPRESENTED

For the first time since he left on his campaign itinerary in September Congressman J. K. Tener was greeted by many of his Charleroi friends at the closing rally at Monongahela last night. Between 400 and 500 Charleroi people were in attendance at the meeting, which was an enthusiastic gathering of several thousand at an open air meeting.

John H. Jones, president of the Pittsburgh Buffalo Coal company, presided over the meeting, which was held at the corner of Second and Main streets. Mr. Jones introduced the speakers, which included besides Mr. Tener, William A. Blakeley of Pittsburgh, district attorney of Allegheny county and Congressman A. J. Barchfield of Pittsburgh.

District Attorney Blakeley in his remarks spoke of the good times he said have been experienced during the Republican administration and dwelt some time on the statements that have been made against Tener.

Congressman Barchfield said that Tener would receive a majority of 25,000 votes in Allegheny county. He said that Tener would carry his own county, Washington, by a major-

KEYSTONERS INSULT CHARLEROI PEOPLE BY CLAIMING FRAUD

Ask to Have Overseers Appointed From Their Own Number but Court Catches Them in Ill Concealed Attempt.

In addition to reflecting upon the fair name and integrity of the electorate of Charleroi the Keystone party workers in the county tried to "pull one over" on us, to use a slang expression. Not only did these people invoke a provision of the election law that reflects discredit upon the communities to which it applies, but they also tried to evade the law and turn a possible advantage to their own account.

This was the appointment of special overseers to guard against fraud in all the precincts of Charleroi. The election law provides that the courts may, upon petition of five citizens, lawful voters of each district, appoint two overseers upon affidavit that such appointments are necessary to guard against fraud and secure the purity and fairness of elections. The law provides that these overseers shall be of members of different political parties.

The mere application for these appointments was an insult to the town, as there are never any deliberate frauds or suspicion of frauds in the elections here. In making the applications to the court for the appointments, a bunch of Keystone attorneys, who were handling the papers, presented names for two overseers in each of the three Charleroi precincts. When asked by the court if these represented opposite political parties in each precinct, the reply was that such a one had always been a Republican, and such a one had always been a Democrat. "But what are they now?" insisted the court, and the attorneys were obliged to admit they did not know whether the applicants still retained their former political allegiance.

D. M. McCloskey, Esq., who was aware of the proceedings, appeared in the interests of Charleroi, and opposed the appointment of the overseers. He denied that there had been any frauds in Charleroi except in the minds of some hysterical newspapers, and held that unless fraud was alleged the court could use its discretion in the matter of appointment of overseers. However, as the court records showed that such appointments had been previously made, they were allowed, but the court insisted that they must be strictly within legal requirements, and refused to accept all the appointments recommended by the Keystoneers.

This allowed them but one overseer in each precinct, and the others were secured by obtaining names furnished from county Republican headquarters. The Keystoneers had hoped to illegally "hog" both overseers in each precinct, and use their influence to whatever advantage might run up.

The Charleroi appointments made by the court were: First precinct, Dr. F. L. Crow, Republican; William Evans, Second precinct, John H. Bowers, Republican, Joseph Black, Third precinct, John Herron, Republican, C. J. Bucy. Overseers were also appointed for California, which has been claimed all along as a Keystone stronghold, but this action demonstrates that they are not altogether sure of that district.

Little Berry Sentiment Manifest and Charleroi Man Hopes for Large Plurality.

SOME VOTES CHALLENGED

Keystoneers Contesting Bitterly Every Inch of Ground—Mines Along Valley Closed Down.

Indications point to a big vote polled in Charleroi today for John K. Tener of Charleroi, Republican candidate for Governor, and the whole Republican ticket. Everything has been quiet thus far, and while there has been some challenging of votes, this has been largely caused by a mix-up in the registration books. Berry sentiment is hard to find and there are few workers out on the streets supporting the Keystone cause.

At noon today at the first precinct there had been 249 votes cast and at the second precinct shortly after noon there had been 170 votes cast. In the third precinct it is stated there had been nearly as many. A vote this size early in the day is taken as an indication of the polling of a large vote.

Most of the challenging was at the second precinct, where through some mixup in the registration books, it is said, many names did not appear. Keystone watchers there bitterly contested every bit of ground, and many well known men who thought their names were registered have had to swear in their votes. Everywhere is conspicuous small tags bearing the inscription "Why Not be Loyal to Charleroi Today?"

The factories are all working, but the mines in the vicinity are closed down for the day.

PUTS MOTION AND ADJOURNS COUNCIL

Dr. Davis the Whole "Thing" at Regular Scheduled Session.

Only one councilman appeared last night for the scheduled meeting of council, the rest of the councilmen being busy campaigning for their favorite, John K. Tener, for Governor. The one councilman who appeared was Dr. A. O. Davis. After waiting a while with Clerk Nickerson, he assumed the chair, put the motion to adjourn until Wednesday evening, and by unanimous consent the motion was carried.

Something For Nothing

Republicans who desert their party today to support W. H. Berry and this Keystone ticket, are giving something for nothing and they will bitterly regret their action later on. In this time of social unrest and political hysteria it is well to consider where the road will lead to in case a change is made. Who are the men that are instrumental in engineering this movement of revolt in the State at a time when the party was never freer from attack and scandal, now when the voters have more power to exercise their suffrage in the selection of candidates from the highest to the lowest?

After all the mass of campaign oratory, harangue and appeal, coupled with the vilest personal vituperation and attacks the State has ever witnessed, what has the opposition shown in the way of a public issue, that should prompt a Republican voter to desire a change? Nothing, absolutely nothing, has been shown or presented. Failing in this the opposition has indulged in a series of malicious and slanderous personal attacks upon the Republican candidate for Governor, that has extended to the personal impeachment of the character of his home town and community. The people who made these attacks are back of the Keystone movement, and in the event of the election of that ticket, from their number would be chosen the advisers and official board of their candidate. Is there any reason to believe that men who will stoop to the despicable campaign methods they practiced will be the safest and best that can be selected to administer State affairs?

So much for local and State affairs. Coupled with the attempt to divert and inflame the popular discontent with matters nearer at home is a deep and well laid plot to capture the national administration for the opposition. This is sowing the wind which must inevitably result in reaping the whirlwind. In view of much popular discontent due to hanging economic conditions, there is all the more need of careful, conservative action. History always repeats itself, and radical changes of national fiscal policy at this particular time can only bring financial disaster and industrial depression, together with misery, suffering and starvation. This is a danger that menaces the country today, and is the only reward that can possibly come if enough Republicans desert the grand old party to elect Mr. Berry and his Keystone endorsements for Congress and other legislative offices.

Rubbing It In

Through the Acheson influence another insult was heaped upon Charleroi as a result of the scurrilous campaign of infamy waged by the Keystone party against Congressman John K. Tener, Republican candidate for Governor, and the citizens of his home town who dared to support and uphold his honor and integrity. This was by the appointment of supervisors at all the polling places in Charleroi, a contingency provided by the election laws, where fraud is suspected or alleged. This is done on petition to the court and by the representations of interested parties. By petitioning for these supervisors for Charleroi, the Keystone workers hoped to put Charleroi in an unfavorable light before the public.

This action bears the earmarks of the Acheson interests, who have boldly charged that 346 illegal votes were cast at the primary election in April 1908. There was no occasion for this action which is a reflection on Charleroi, and was designed expressly to discredit the town solely because it is the home of John K. Tener, the Republican candidate for Governor. To charge the community that leads in the county and State in organized church and Sunday school work as the centre of political corruption, is an insult to the whole people.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

In Westmoreland during October there were two murders. Goodness, they're getting wicked over there.

"Blakenburg calls for Berry's election as the State's one hope."—North American headline. Heaven knows it is a lonesome enough hope.

A Washington minister tells girls how to get husbands. As if they didn't know better how to get them than the men do how to keep from being "got."

What in the world will people do for a topic of conversation after election day.

The New Castle Herald is opposing Tener for the reason that he advocates good roads. Consistency thou art a lost art.

People who make a profession of believing the radical newspapers never believe the things said by them that are not exactly in accord with their own views.

The Pittsburgh Leader said Tener wasn't fit for the office of Governor and was backed by a horrible Penrose machine, and some few narrow minded people believed it. The next day the Leader came out and said Penrose was running the Prohibition party and operating a church synod, and the very same people said they didn't believe it. Consistency, thou art a muck raker.

The North American refers to the Mail as "The Public Ledger of Western Pennsylvania." How very complimentary. This is infinitely better than to be known as "The North American of Western Pennsylvania," and we sincerely thank the North American for its excellent taste in this one respect.

ity of 2,000 votes, while Berry would lose his own county, Delaware, by 2,000 votes. He said that for eight years Monongahela had been seeking an appropriation for a city building. During Tener's first term in Congress he said, an appropriation of $80,000 was granted through his influence.

It was manifestly a Tener crowd, and when the Charleroi candidate was introduced he was greeted with wild and enthusiastic cheers. Shouts of "We know you, John" "We're with you" and "We'll pay 'em back at election" were interspersed during the address. Mr. Tener was in good voice and spirits, and although he appeared a trifle thinner than usual, was apparently none the worse for his arduous campaign. He said in part:

"It gives me great pleasure to be back again in the Monongahela valley after a campaign which has been a hard and exacting one. I am glad to be with you again and to again become a part of the people for whom I have formed so great an affection during the years I have been with you.

"The speakers who have preceded me have carefully outlined the national issues and I know it will interest you more to hear of the State issues for which you will be called upon to cast your ballot tomorrow. I cannot proceed without first calling your attention to the conditions which existed in the period from 1892 to '97 which were brought about by the greatest mistake the American people ever made, when they chose to accept Democratic control. You men who are here can remember what were the conditions when the Democratic party controlled the country. You men who are voting tomorrow know what it would mean if the conditions were to be repeated. You should guard against a repetition of such folly.

"We are all vitally interested in State matters. Under the Republican conditions the country has prospered until it has reached a condition which never before has been equaled. Pennsylvania has placed upon the statute books laws that are of the utmost importance to the welfare and prosperity of each individual and community."

Mr. Tener then briefly outlined the State's generous policy of education, good roads construction, which he declared should be amplified and extended, and the safeguarding of the public health. In reply to certain charges regarding alleged treatment of people of different races and conditions, Mr. Tener said he his position was to treat all fairly and equally. His creed, said was that a man is a man just as long as he proves himself a man. Concerning certain newspaper attacks upon him he said:

"There have been attacks made upon me and upon my character and business relations during the past few weeks which I regret. I refer to them briefly and seldom. I prefer to leave my record in the hands of the people who know me and know me for what I am. I don't think it necessary, in addressing you this evening, to make any exaggerated statement of my position. I know many of you who are standing before me this evening. Many of you know me intimately. I have lived among you for the last 20 years and I can say with honesty and conviction that there is no man in this county, or in any other county, who can truthfully say that I have ever robbed or swindled him out of a single dollar. Not one has said so and not one man will ever say it."

Mr. Tener also urged the selection of all his colleagues on the ticket, Congressional, Senatorial and Legislative.

A. H. Anderson, Esq., Republican candidate for State Senate, made a short address in which he was enthusiastically greeted by the crowd. After the addresses hundreds crowded around the speakers' stand to shake hands with Mr. Tener, after which he departed for his home in Charleroi by automobile.

FIRE DESTROYS MARIANNA HALL

The big amusement hall, "the pride of Marianna," known to miners all over the United States as being the finest equipped place of amusement for miners, was totally destroyed by fire shortly after 7 o'clock Sunday morning.

The losses amount to $75,000; the building being valued at $50,000, and the contents at $25,000.

The amusement building contained a skating rink, a theatre, operated by J. Harrison, the Young Men's Christian Association rooms, bowling alley, a pool room, a barber shop conducted by Albert Grim and also the drug store of J. D. Hazel and the office of Dr. F. F. Cobb, the physician for the Pittsburgh-Buffalo company at Marianna.

The structure was of three stories, 106 feet 5 inches long by 62 feet 8 inches wide. The building was of brick and steel with heavy wooden floors and prepared roofing. The interior wall surfaces were painted instead of being plastered. The building was a beautiful one and contained every arrangement for the comfort of the miners that could be procured. The loss was not covered by insurance.

The evening was delightfully spent at cards and other diversions. A sumptuous lunch was served.

Japanese Children.

The Japanese child is exceedingly shy and retiring before its elders, and girls are taught to practice this more than boys. In the morning as soon as they are up the children go to their parents in turn bow their heads to the ground and say "Good morning" or "How is your honorable health?" Before a meal they lift the chopsticks to their foreheads and bow in thanks, whether the parents are present or not, for the meal set before them. Before going out to school or elsewhere and on returning they must kneel before the mother and bow. When father or mother go out the children must go to the porch kneel down and say "Down to go forth" or "Honorable return as the case may be. As soon as infants can bow their heads the nurses train them in these respectful salutations.—Exchange

The Effects.

"See here, man, you oughtn't to come to me for comfort. What you need is to go to a hospital for treatment."—Baltimore American.

"In the olden days they had no watches, you know," said the father. "And how did they tell the time?" asked the son.

When the Hen Crows.

Willford in his "Nature Secrets" (1858) writes:
"Beasts eating greedily and more than they used to do prenotes foul weather, and all small cattle that seem to rejoice with playing and sporting themselves foreshews rain. Ozen and all kinds of neat, if you do at any time observe them to hold up their heads and snuffle in the air or lick their hooves or their bodies against the hair, expect then rainy weather. Asses or mules rubbing often their ears or braying much more than usually they are accustomed presages rain. Hogs crying and running up and down with bay or litter in their mouths foreshews a storm to be near at hand. The little sable beast (called a dea) if much thrashing after blood it argues rain. The cock if he crows in the daytime very much or at sunset or when he is at roost at unusual hours, as at 9 or 10, expect some change of weather and that suddenly, but from fair to foul or the contrary. But when the hen crows good men expect a storm within doors and without."

Lured Into Bathing.

In a railway carriage chat the other day a London medical man told a good story which had come within his own experience. A mother was frequently bringing her child to him for treatment, but the doctor could discover nothing amiss except its need of a good wash. She was certain the infant was suffering from some terrible complaint and begged the doctor to do his best. He prescribed a daily wash with the water in which potatoes had been peeled. Never suspecting that this was merely a ruse to get the child washed, the mother followed the instructions to the letter. Rosy cheeks appeared, and a clean, healthy looking child gladdened the mother's heart. She sounded the doctor's praises everywhere and advised other mothers to test the efficacy of potato water. It never occurred to her that precisely the same result would have followed the daily application of soap and water.

A Spanish Ship Treasure.

In 1762 the largest bulk of treasure ever taken from a ship at sea was brought into London. It was the whole of the cargo of the Spanish ship Hermione, captured on May 21 by H. M. S. Active. The Hermione surrendered to the Active without an action, and the treasure was landed at Portsmouth and conveyed to London in twenty decorated wagons, with British colors over Spanish and an escort party of sailors. The strange procession reached London on Aug. 12, the day on which George IV. was born. On being sold the treasure realized $519,705 1s. 6d., and the share of the officers and men of the Active was as follows: The captain, $65,033 13s. 9d.; three commissioned officers, each $13,004 14s. 1d.; eight warrant officers, each $4,336 3s. 2d.; twenty petty officers, each $1,806 1s. 8d.; 135 seamen, each $485 5s. 4d.—Pall Mall Gazette

Jury Penalties.

Nowadays no penalty is enforced when the twelve men chosen to form the jury are unable to agree upon a verdict. Formerly, however, a refractory jurymen was committed to prison and the verdict of the eleven was taken. In the reign of King Edward III. the judges decided that a verdict given by a majority was a nullity and recommended that the judges should carry the jury about with them in a cart till they should agree. The old custom that jurors should fast until they had agreed in their verdict prevailed long, but was mercifully relaxed somewhat in Tudor times, and during Queen Elizabeth's reign a banquet was usually given to the jury by the successful party to a suit.—St. Paul Pioneer Press

Science and Cheese.

A medical authority kindly assures us that as long as cheese isn't decayed it will not affect the health of the consumer. This is a fact that we have suspected for a considerable time. But how is the ordinary cheese epicure to detect the difference unless he waits for results?

There is cheese so thoroughly disguised in the costume and aroma of decay that its proper standing on the sanitary testing table would puzzle a conjurer.

And she unconsciously put her hands up to arrange the position of her hat.

NATION'S EYES ON PENNSYLVANIA

Gibraltar of Republicanism Will Be Loyal Next Tuesday.

VITAL ISSUES AT STAKE

Disaster That Followed Former Democratic Victories In This State Recalled.

Pennsylvania occupies a unique position in the national political situation.

Next Tuesday's election is of more than passing interest. Should by any chance either Grim or Berry be elected governor, it would be hailed as a triumph for the Democracy, as they are both Democrats; Grim of the Guffey school of conservatives, and Berry, a rampant Bryanite.

The Democrats are looking ahead. They are after the national house of congress, and they also expect to make gains in the United States senate.

While they would not ordinarily expect to make inroads into the Republican congressional delegation from this state, with the protective tariff a vital issue in the contest, the Democrats see an opportunity to defeat some Republican congressional candidates through the fact that the Keystone leaders, with Berry at the head of their ticket, have placed the names of a number of Democratic nominees for congress in their column.

Every misguided Republican who votes for Berry on the Keystone ticket may be unwittingly contributing toward the defeat of a Republican candidate for congress.

Senatorship Involved.

It must also be remembered that the Keystone ticket contains the names of a number of Democrats for the legislature and that the general assembly will meet in Harrisburg next January. It will be called upon to elect members to the United States Senate.

There is a possibility of possible disaster to the Democratic gubernatorial ticket in special sessions generally called by the Republican and Democratic legislatures. A fall to stand true to the Democratic cause next week, a Democratic victory would be given the national Democracy for the coming presidential election.

These facts should not be overlooked.

In 1882 Robert Pattison, Democrat, was elected governor of Pennsylvania. In 1884 Grover Cleveland was elected president of the United States. In 1890 Pattison was again chosen governor.

In 1892 Cleveland returned to the White House.

Then followed the Wilson tariff bill, which closed the mills of Pennsylvania and sent thousands upon thousands of wage workers to the streets begging for daily bread.

There is little difference between Grim and Berry.

Both are hide-bound Democrats; either would use the power of the governor's office to promote the cause of Democracy, no matter if they do belong to different factions of the party. Grim's ridiculous assaults upon Governor Stuart's administration and Berry's erratic course in politics and finance stamp them both as undesirable for the office of governor.

Democrats on Lookout.

"The Democratic congressional committee is counting upon a Democratic sweep by the aid of Grim or Berry sufficient to overturn the Republican party, to gain a dozen members of congress, to capture the legislature and send a Democrat to the United States senate," says the editor of the Philadelphia Inquirer.

"And let it be confessed right here, that if they could succeed in so doing Pennsylvania might beg in vain for any quarter. Her immense manufacturing and industrial industries would be sacrificed on the altar of Democratic theories and her mills and business houses would meet the same fate that they did when, under the last Democratic administration, the Wilson tariff brought destitution and bankruptcy.

"This is the condition which all Republicans must face.

"But we do not believe that Pennsylvania Republicans can be coaxed under any pretense whatever into the Grim or Berry Democratic organizations in sufficient numbers to affect the general result. It is true that in these closing days a vicious onslaught has been made upon the Republican ticket, and especially upon Tener. But Pennsylvania has become accustomed to vicious onslaughts. Four years ago the most despicable kind of a campaign was made against Edwin S. Stuart, but a very great many of his opponents have lived to bless the day when, in spite of their votes against him, he was elected. The Republican administration has been above reproach.

"We have no doubt whatever of the perfect safety of Pennsylvania institutions under the administration of Governor Tener, and we believe that Pennsylvania Republicans by a large majority think with us."

"Republicans of Pennsylvania should go to the polls and vote the full Republican ticket to insure a magnificent triumph on Tuesday next."

Fresh Air in Winter

In winter, it is hard to get fresh air in certain rooms. Some rooms in a house are usually colder than others, and if you open the windows it is hard again to heat the room properly.

If you keep the windows closed you don't get fresh air; if you keep them open you cannot quickly reheat the room. The solves the difficulty. You can leave the windows in a room open all day in winter, and when you close them apply a match to a Perfection Oil Heater and heat the room to any temperature you desire in a few minutes.

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Absolutely smokeless and odorless

The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in Japan or nickel. It burns for nine hours. It has a cool handle and a damper top. It has an automatic locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so that the wick can be quickly cleaned. An indicator always shows amount of oil in the font.

The filler-cap does not need to be screwed down. It is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device in construction, and consequently, it can always be easily unscrewed in an instant for reworking. The Perfection Oil Heater is strong, durable, well made, built for service, yet light and ornamental.

KEEPING HIS BALANCE.

A Story With a Moral That Is Told Among the Tartars.

There is a story told among the Tartars which has a moral for the civilized men of the present day. It is to this effect: Robo, cousin of the great mogul, was condemned to death for participation in a rebellion. The most skillful swordsman in the empire was provided for the execution, and the great mogul and his court were present as spectators.

The thin, keen blade flashed in the sunlight and descended upon the back of Robo, who stood upright to receive the stroke.

The executioner's work was so deftly done that, though the head was severed, not a vital organ was disturbed. Robo remained standing.

"What, Robo, art thou not beheaded?" exclaimed the great mogul.

"My lord, I am," replied Robo, "but as long as I keep my balance right my head will not fall off."

The great mogul was placated. A band was put on Robo's neck, and he recovered. He afterward became a loyal subject and was made cashier of the empire because, as the great mogul remarked:

"He knows that if he keeps his balance right his head will not come off."

MANY WITNESS THE FIRST NIGHT SHOW

At the Coyle Theatre last night a large and enthusiastic audience was present to welcome the first night of the Mysterious Madam Clifford who is here for a stay of a week. Her work is marvelous and as well startling, for she is the cleanest cut performer in this line that has ever been here. When she is classed as Anna Eva Fay's only rival, that is not saying enough, as she does more than Anna. Madam Clifford allows a committee to be chosen from the audience of any one that may desire to come upon the stage and act as such. This has never been done before and she answers the questions put to her at the rate of about one a minute. When the demonstration given last night of the psychic mind reading and mental telepathy it will cause much talk as about all one can hear is "were you at the theatre last night to see Madam Clifford?"

The supporting company is excellent. Bingham and Gable will attract and delight all lovers of music and are not confined to any one instrument. Lew Grace is a funny comedian and has some good songs and does some clever and artistic dancing. Revel and Derry, the novelty gymnasts, do some very difficult feats in strength and so some ticks that are new in their line. Mitchell and Browning are certainly funny in their comedy sketch entitled "His Last Skech."

Tonight, election night, arrangements have been made to receive the returns by wire and will be announced from the stage as quickly as received.

The Tale of a Key.

There is a roll top desk in an office near Wall street which can be bought cheap. The owner is a commuter and has desk room in a large office. He came late the other day and discovered that he had forgotten his keys. No key at hand would unlock the desk. The maker could not give aid for an hour or more, and some papers had to be reached before noon. The desk was forcibly opened, and two inner compartments were smashed. Warm and tired from the exertion of wrecking his property, the man took off his coat and slipped into an office coat. In the pocket of which his keys jingled. Tableau! Before going home he confided to the office boy that he wouldn't care if he hadn't told.--New York Tribune.

The Pillory.

The pillory in England was abolished as a punishment, except for perjury, in 1835 and was totally abolished in 1837. The last person to suffer at the Old Bailey was one Peter Bossy, for perjury, June 22, 1830. Notwithstanding the fact that this mode of punishment was supposed to be only for the lighter offenses, it often happened that the pillory meant death to those placed in it, the culprit frequently being stoned to death by the heartless mob.--New York American

THOS. MARTINDALE,
A Philadelphia business man.

New York and the Surf.
Few New Yorkers ever stop to think that one of that city's chief attractions is the surf. Philadelphians must go fifty-six miles to the ocean. Though the folk of Baltimore and Washington live on tidewater they must travel for surf bathing to the capes. Boston is the only other large town on the Atlantic seaboard besides New York that has the ocean at its back door. San Francisco and Los Angeles are the only Pacific coast cities within trolley ride of ocean beach. None of the Mexican gulf cities can be compared to New York as a seaside resort, and as to New Orleans, another Mecca of the pleasure seekers, that lies more than 100 miles above the mouth of the Mississippi. But, including Coney Island and Rockaway, a good many miles of Greater New York are bounded by the ocean. This fact, just to consider the money making side of it, means an enormous revenue to the metropolis from the inland parts of the country. It is an advantage other great world centers, such as London, Paris and Berlin, do not enjoy.—Argonaut.

The Short Step Between.
"I was on an ocean liner when she ran on the rocks off the English coast some years ago," said a traveling man, "and in the panic that ensued there is one incident that stands out in my memory, illustrating the slender thread between the tragic and the ridiculous. We had a fellow on board who had managed to keep pretty well loaded all the way across, and when we struck the rocks he was in his usual condition. When everybody thought for sure we were going to the bottom, he sat down at the piano in the saloon, and what do you suppose he began playing? 'Home, Sweet Home.' Somebody went to him and begged him to stop. Immediately he switched off from the doleful strains of the old song to the rollicking melody of 'Down Went McGinry.' The absurdity of the thing seemed to strike everybody at once, and a general laugh followed. The tension was relieved, and there was good order after that."

The Restaurant Piccolo.
Writing from Dresden, an American says: "There is at least one thing in a German restaurant for which one would look in vain in our country. That is the piccolo. You may think that I mean a musical instrument and that any orchestra in any country might have one of these, but you are wrong. My piccolo, the one at the restaurant, is a human being. He is a boy twelve to fifteen years old, who assists the regular waiters. He wears the regulation waiter's costume and looks funny in his spiketail coat. He is as solemn as a funeral, knows how to extract a tip and for the high privilege of retaining his place and taking his first degree as a waiter must endure much abuse at the hands of the head waiter and his underlings. He is a funny little fellow, this piccolo, who because of his appearance could never prosper in our country."—New York Tribune.

Created a New Word.
It was the third Earl Spencer who added a word to the language in consequence of a wager. The bet was that by cutting off the tail part of his overcoat he could bring into fashion overcoats so short that the skirts of the undercoat would show beneath. He won his wager, and "spencer" became the name both of that garment and of the feminine one afterward constructed in its likeness. The peerage has added more than one name to the terminology of costume. Everybody knows "Wellingtons," and the billycock hat is said by some to be really "Billy Coke," from Coke of Norfolk, earl of Leicester. But none of these examples in the sphere of clothes rivals what the Earl of Sandwich did when he contrived the slice of meat between bread as a device to enable him to go on gambling without leaving off for a meal.—London Chronicle.

Getting Acquainted.
"We hesitated about renting this place," said the woman who had just moved in, "until we learned that the families on both sides of us owned their houses. It is so unpleasant to live where the people next door are always changing and you never know what kind of neighbors you are going to have."
"Yes," responded the woman on the other side of the fence. "That's one reason why we're trying to sell our house."—Chicago Tribune.

A Bright Student.
During a recent examination in the theology of the Old Testament the following question was asked a young clergyman: "What language did Balaam's ass speak?" After a moment of thought a smile flashed across his face, and he wrote his answer. I looked at the paper. He had written, "Assyrian."—Lippincott's.

Things He Sees.
"He's a terrible drunkard, isn't he?"
"Yes, but he's a good citizen."
"How can that be?"
"Every time he has jimjams he goes to the courthouse and pays taxes on a pack of pink and blue dogs."—Cleveland Leader.

Anticipated.
Margaret—Did you tell the girls at the tea that secret I confided to you and Josephine?
Katharine—No, truly I didn't. Josephine got there first.—Harper's Bazar.

Know Better.
"They say Brown is ten years ahead of his time."
"Well, it's not true. He's six months behind. I'm his landlord and know."

SLIPS IN WRITING.

Curious Blunders Made by Reporters and Correspondents.
Every once in awhile some school-teacher comes forward with a list of ludicrous mistakes made in composition by her infant charges. The following laughable "breaks" were not made by school children, but by news paper reporters and correspondents. Writing is their business, but they often make ridiculous mistakes in the haste of "catching an edition."
In a story about a mad dog scare on Staten Island the reporter wrote, "Police-man Jones drove the dog into ambush and killed it."
The head of a prominent Wall street house, in telling about the action of the directors of a certain company, was quoted as saying, "It came like a cannon ball out of a clear sky."
The report of the result of a damage suit: "Carmine Carusini was awarded a verdict of $2,000 for injuries received by the jury from the Erie Railroad company."
This from a Brooklyn reporter: "He tried to end his life by suicide."
This one might have been due to an error in typewriting: "The girl was afflicted with typhoid fever."
A correspondent in a small town on Long Island, evidently laboring under great excitement, wired, "Mrs. George E. Blank was the heroine of the holocaust." (She played a garden hose on a burning barn.) In further describing the blaze he said, "The flames swept into furious environment."—New York World.

How Eggs Are Hatched In China.
There is in China a curious method of hatching eggs. First the eggs are placed in tiers in a large basket, twice the size of an ordinary barrel, which is thickly lined with hay and carefully closed from the air by a tight fitting cover of twisted straw. In three days' time the eggs are taken out and replaced in a different order, those at the surface being put in the lower tier. This is repeated every third day for a fortnight, when the eggs are removed from the basket and placed on a shelf in another room, being carefully covered with bran. In a day or two the chickens chip the shells and make their appearance into the world. The success of this method is attributed to the fact that the animal heat of the egg, being retained by the basket, which is formed of material not conducting caloric, is sufficient to support animal life and develop it.—Detroit Free Press.

Force of Association.
"How frigid that girl's manner is!"
"No wonder. She is the daughter of a millionaire ice-man."—Baltimore American.

OLD FAMILIES.

me In Europe and In the Orient That Are Really Ancient.
In Great Britain and on the continent those families pride themselves at count their ancestry through ten generations, but their claims to really ancient lineage seem insignificant when compared with those of certain uses in the Orient.
We read that the oldest family in Great Britain, the Mar family in Scotland, may trace its pedigree to 1093. Then, too, we have the Campbells of Gyll, whose date is put down at 1190. The Grosvenor family, that of the Duke of Westminster, refers its origin to the same year that the Conqueror came over—i. e., 1066. The Austrian use of Hapsburg goes back farther than that, its date being 952, while the Bourbons proudly mention 894 as the date of their origin.
But none of them is to be mentioned the same breath with the emperor Japan, whose office has been filled by members of his family for a period over 2,500 years, the present ruler being the one hundred and twenty second in the line. The first emperor of Japan sat on the throne about the time Nebuchadnezzar was flourishing—that is, in 650 B. C.
Another oriental branch, the descendants of Mohammed, presents claims not to be dismissed. The prophet was born 570, and a list of his descendants is been carefully retained, being duly set forth in a volume kept in Mecca, little or no doubt exists of the authenticity of the long list of names of Mohammed's descendants as registered in his sacred book.—Harper's Weekly.

LOVELY LUCERNE.
The Tourist Center of the "Playground of Europe."
Lucerne, situated in the heart of Switzerland, stands, as it were, enshrined amid the grandest and most picturesque features of Alpine scenery and is, of course, the tourist center par excellence of the "Playground of Europe," three main lines of railway converging on the famous town beside the lake. Nor could nature, indeed, have well done more for "Lovely Lucerne," as all the world acclaim it (declares a writer in London Sketch). On one side stands the Rigi, on the other Pilatus (7,000 feet high), with between them the fair, shimmering expanse of the Lake of the Four Cantons and beyond it again a widespread panorama of the glaciers and snow peaked ranges of the Alps.
From the Rigi (6,000 feet), easily climbed by aid of its famous "mountain train," the view takes in the Bernina, Gothard, Unterwalden and Bormio Alps, stretching far and wide from the Sentis in the east to the Blumisalp in the west, and to northward the Jura mountains, the Black forest and the Vosges barrier between France and Teutonia. From the Rigi some fourteen lakes are visible on a clear day, among them Sempach, by the shores of which was fought the famous battle where the Swiss won their freedom.

'em mightily—but, la, just have anything else you happen to have.
"Tut one that expects an' is willing to eat what's set before me, an' no questions asked ner fault found when I go visiting. So don't you put yourself out a mite for me. If you have what I've mentioned an' anything else you want to have I'll be satisfied. I ain't one that cares very much about what I eat anyhow. As the saying is, 'any old thing' will do for me."—Puck.

Recipe For a Flower Garden.
Take twenty square yards of sand and pebbles, stir in sufficient clay to make a compact water tight mass, ram down hard and score the surface with a rake. Add carefully ten packets of seeds of the most magnificent flower known that will grow anywhere and under any conditions, throwing up a continuous succession of enormous flower trusses from March to November, each petal five inches across and of the richest and most glowing tints. This is the commonest of all flowers and will be found listed on any page of any florist's catalogue. Set the whole out to rise, keeping it moist and warm. After allowing the mass to rise four months sprinkle red spiders and green aphides plentifully over the top and soak well with tears. The net result may be preserved in a small bottle of alcohol for future reference.—Philadelphia North American.

WANTED NO FUSS.
Old Thing Would Do For Dinner, So She Said.
Mrs. Betsy Baxter was the last person in the world to want anybody to like trouble on her account. When "dropped in" on Mrs. Doolittle unexpectedly for dinner one day she took her position on this point quite ar. "Don't you go to a mite of fuss on my account, Mis' Doolittle, you know that I'm a person for whom I can just lay down an extra plate of set before me anything you happen to have in the house."
"If you just fry a chicken some as I would for your own folks, an' take up a pan of your tea biscuits that one can eat, an' open a glass of our red currant jelly, an' have a dish your quince preserves, an' some of a pound cake, you most always have your cake jar, you do that, an' have me piping hot apple fritters with hot apple syrup to go with 'em, an' some your good coffee, an' any vegetables I happen to have in the house, I'll sweet potatoes the way you fix."

NEWSPAPER MAN'S

FUNERAL ATTENDED BY LARGE NUMBER

William Long Had Numerous Friends Among Fraternity

Governor-elect John K. Tener attended the funeral services of William Long, the well-known newspaper man, at the home of the latter's brother yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at 12 Simms street, Mt. Washington, Pittsburgh. Many other prominent men were also in attendance.

Mr. Long's death occurred last Friday after a protracted illness. At the time of his death he was assistant editor of the Washington Pa., Record. For years he had been connected with Pittsburgh and McKeesport newspapers. The Long residence was filled with floral tributes of beautiful design. Conspicuous among them was a matrix of the Records' editorial page, containing the obituary of Mr. Long, gilded in gold and framed in a floral wreath. Adorning the top of the beautiful design was the fateful "30" formed with violets, this being a sign familiar only to newspaper workers.

Services were conducted by Rev. Dr. George T. Street of the Mount Washington Baptist church. Governor-elect Tener was accompanied at the funeral by his secretary, Walter H. Gaither and C. E. Carothers of Washington. The Record's staff and a number of other newspaper men of Pittsburgh and vicinity who had been associated with Mr. Long in journalistic work for many years also were in attendance.

DREAD DANGERS OF WHITE PLAGUE TO BE ILLUSTRATED

Tuberculosis Exhibit and Lectures at Monessen This Week

This week there will be a State tuberculosis exhibit in Monessen, which promises to attract no little interest. The affair will be conducted by C. H. Cabaugh and will be an introduction of the excellent work that has been done by the State board of health with regard to the stamping out of this scourge that for years has been taking so many lives. The Monessen dispensary under the management of Dr. M. J. Cramer assisted by Miss Marie Watson, a nurse, has been doing excellent work.

Many patients have been treated and many have made excellent recoveries. This is only one of the many dispensaries that is scattered over the State doing similar work. The exhibit this week will be held in the Monessen Opera house and illustrated lectures will be held free to the public.

There will be no admission fee charged and the lectures will be interesting and instructive not only to those afflicted with the disease but the public at large. It will show and illustrate the excellent work that is being done by the State, under the direction of Dr. Dixon.

The Ameer Was Thorough.

There were some interesting episodes in the life of Sir Charles Euan-Smith. Once in the market place of an Afghan town he was fired at by a native. He lodged a complaint with the ameer, who appeared to take no notice of the incident, merely remarking, "That's all right." Sir Charles complained again and met with the same reply. He still thought that the ameer was treating a serious matter with less consideration than it deserved, but thought it advisable to say no more on the subject. About a week afterward he was invited by the ameer to ride with him. They rode for some distance outside the town, and they passed gibbet after gibbet. At length Sir Charles said, "Your highness has been busy of late." "Oh, no," replied the ameer; "they are your little lot." He had seized all the members of the would be assassin's family and hanged every one of them.
